PAR-TEE LINE

An important club membership meeting is scheduled to tonight at the club, and officers urge all members to be present. Between the rain and heat, course activity has slowed to a slightly recent though lively informal party was pronounced a success last Saturday night. Following a pot luck supper, members and their guests played cards and danced to the juke.

Shootin' Blanks

The ill winds which blow no good are at it again. Hurricanes in these parts start before they are spotted deep in the heart of the Caribbean by weather specialists. I've covered. Hot breezes come first whipping up whirls of yards of howl dredges followed many miles over land, finally settling in some foreign desert. Other stories are better yet, but I only print the possible.

"Shrugging Off" Road Signs is Filling Hospitals and Cemeteries.

"You can't shrug off traffic signs!" Safety Director H. N. Kirkman told Florida's drivers recently as the Florida Highway Patrol's August program of traffic safety education moved into its 10th day.

"You can bet your bottom dollar," he said, "that every traffic sign and signal you pass on the highway has a definite reason for being where it is. The hospitals and cemeteries are full of ex-drivers who shrugged off some sign on the mistaken notion that whoever put it there didn't know what he was doing."

A great many intersections having "Stop" signs are deceptively safe-looking, but have a bloody history behind them that necessitated the original installation of these controls, the Florida Highway Patrol reports.

In the same way, each speed limit and warning sign is a silent testimonial to days and weeks of investigation and testing by traffic experts in their efforts to determine at what speed, and under what conditions, the road may be safely traveled. Entering into this are studies of the road's surface, what effects various weather conditions have on it, topography of the country through which the road travels; principles of inertia; and other factors that seldom occur to the average driver.

"No traffic sign or signal," Kirkman said, "is thrown up at random simply because it is found lying around in the sign shop."

The Florida Highway Patrol, in its efforts, this month, to impress motorists with the importance of obeying signs and signals, is cooperating with the National Safety Council.

A Texas music educator says there's a need for "big" music, swing and sweet jazz in high schools to get students interested in music.

Dr. H. Jones, professor of music education at the University of Texas, says music classes "should offer the kind of music the students are interested in."

Then, after they're enrolled in the music classes, it's time to expose them to Bach and Beethoven, Dr. Jones told Florida teachers, principals, supervisors and superintendents attending a leadership conference in Tallahassee.

It's not easy, though. "The trouble is, lots of music teachers don't know be-bop and jazz," Dr. Jones said. And he admits, "I can't do it either."

He suggests music teachers ought to listen to the radio more often so they'll know what kind of music the students like.
